DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Principal Ernest R. Warren, of Killingly High school, has received notice that the school again has been approved for a period of three years by the College Entrance Certificate board. This means that colleges, with few exceptions, will permit graduates of Killingly High School to enter without taking examinations. Students who were graduated from Killingly High School in the class of 1919, and who have entered colleges, have made splendid records, as also have the members of the class of 1918.

It was stated Friday by a member of the town school committee that the matter of teachers' salaries for the coming year of school, beginning in September next, remains under consideration. The town school committee here is facing much the same situation as are town school committees all over New England. There is a shortage of teachers, because so many members of the profession have been attracted by offers of higher salaries to go into other lines of endeavor, and a consequent bidding of one town against the other for services of teachers that are available.

A strike of a number of employees of the River Weaving company here had developed no new features during Friday. The strike came suddenly and unexpectedly while F. E. Cushman, owner of the plant, was in New York on a business trip. The workers simply walked out without warning of their intention, and while no representative of the concern who had the power to consider any demands they might desire to make was here to receive them.

Jack McDevitt's Mother song, "Dreaming Dreams of You" is on sale at Roy's Music Store, 20c—adv.

The following Killingly men have been selected by the selectmen as recommended for jury service during the year that will begin in September next: Henry E. Anderson, Clinton W. Atwood, Arthur W. Aldrich, Edward W. Aldrich, James P. Barber, Oliver Bassett, Arnold H. Batey, F. E. Biggood, James Bacon, Fred C. Bellows, Frank L. Bennett, Byron L. Barrows, Richard Burrows, Schuyler D.
